

June Gardening News

Cicada's and earth worms are all the rage right now! But that doesn't bother us gardeners!

The gardens have been opened for 2 weeks now and everyone is busy erecting trellises and fences alongside planting herbs and veg. Already lettuce is leafing and tomato plants have buds. Anna is experimenting this year with planting potatoes- tips she learned from Tick-Tock! The hay helps to soak up rain water and we've had plenty of that lately!

Housekeeping Reminders: Keep the aisles around the water pumps free of hoses and gardening tools. Be a good neighbor and return your hose to your plot. Do not leave it attached to the pump or in an aisle. Your neighbor doesn't want to trip over your hose and the grounds crew will be able to mow the grass more efficiently.
